PAHOKEE — A millage rate as high as 9.5 double this year's property tax rate, and increases in both garbage and water rates face Paurookeye taxpayers.

Forewarning of the higher rates was sounded at Tuesday night's council session when councilmen approved filing a maximum millage rate of 9.5 with county property appraiser Dave Reid, as compared with this year's 4.935 rate.

Because council is still compiling the coming year's budget and final figures are not yet available, the total revenue needed isn't known. But in filing the estimated 9.5 rate City Clerk Betty McCay noted that the city could adopt a millage rate below that amount but cannot exceed it, once it is filed.

The added millage would increase revenue from property taxes by roughly $85,000, according to Mrs. McCay.

In preparing the '80-81 budget, city officials are not only having to deal with inflated costs. The city also faces reduced revenues from the state — a loss of $69,000 in shared revenue — and the threat of decreased money from property taxes if voters approve the proposed increase in Homestead exemptions in

Homestead exemptions and in Oct. 7 referendum.

voters will decide whether the present $5,000 Homestead exemption will be raised to $15,000 with two subsequent annual increases to $20,000 and $25,000.

Along with a jump in the millage rate, the new budget will call for increases in the water and sewer fees. Resolutions calling for new rates have been drawn up by City Attorney Michael Stauder and the amount of the rate increase will probably be set at a budget workshop this week.

Council is meeting in a series of workshop sessions to finalize the budget for a Sept. 29 public hearing before it can be approved.

The rate increases on water and garbage collection will be the first levied in some years.

By Dean Jones

PAHOKEE — City commissioners balanced the budget by agreeing to some $32,000 in cuts in the 1980-81 budget Monday evening during their regular meeting in a workshop Tuesday evening and agreed to enough new cuts to allow them to go with an 8.6 mill levy, the same millage in force for this year.

The 8.6 mill tax, under which property owners will pay $3.60 per thousand dollars unassessed, was adopted despite the city commissioners' vote on the Oct. 7 runoff election ballot which would lower the amount to be taxed on homes.

The amendment, should it pass, will increase the home-stead exemption homeowners can claim to $25,000 over the next three years from the existing $5,000 level, will decrease the expected property tax revenue from $700 in the current budget to $649,000 next year.

Altman said he disagreed, that even if some people think commissioners should paid, he himself is unpaid. He noted that commissioners haven't voted themselves a raise in the six years he's been on the board and said any commissioner doing his or her job has a lot of expenses, such as the time taken off from their regular jobs.

"I remember a few years ago," Altman said, "when there was some controversy in the press about our pay. My best advice to people who were upset about it then is the same as it is now. Be sure you get your money's worth on election day."

"A large part of where we earn our pay is in balancing the budget," he went on, "and I propose we earn our pay by doing that." He said he felt there were sufficient areas in the budget that could stand without any one giving up part of their pay.

Commissioner Walker said she agreed completely with Altman. Davidson joined them in the vote while Kirk and Tindall voted for the pay cut. "I hope," Altman responded to reporters after the vote was taken, "you'll give Ralph all the political points he deserves."

Kirk said there had been discussions in the commissioners' pay during the ten years he's served on the board and he didn't vote for either of them.

Both Kirk and Altman are running for re-election.

When the last workshop ended, the commissioners were left with a $47,000 deficit should they decide to adopt an 8.6 mill levy.

The other commissioners went along when Altman said he would like to restore the $1,200 cut from the annual grant to the Chamber of Commerce in budget sessions earlier in the year.

Commissioner Walker said she agreed completely with Altman. Davidson joined them in the vote while Kirk and Tindall voted for the pay cut.

"I hope," Altman responded to reporters after the vote was taken, "you'll give Ralph all the political points he deserves."

In a telephone interview Thursday morning, Asberry affirmed he had been a resident of Belle Glade for eight months but that, "it is my understanding," that only an eight month residency is required because he had qualified as a candidate in a, "wild and crazy" election.

Asberry said he had been contacted by Key West officials for the first time last Wednesday, after those officials had fired their city manager when he reported less than $1,500 in the city's coffers. He said he had only accepted the offer Monday evening, less than an hour before the commission meeting began.

He made a strong plea for the commission to allow him to leave Friday because of the problems facing Key West, but stressed his first loyalty now is to Belle Glade and offered, if the commissioners wished, to give 30-45 days notice.

Every one of the five commissioners said they didn't want to see Sanders leave Belle Glade but, when the matter was put to a vote, they all agreed to let him leave at the end of this year. Sanders did say that if he is needed, he will return on weekends indefinitely to help with the transition until the city can find a replacement.

Asberry had done ten times over a number of years, City Finance Director Frank Anderson will fill in as acting city manager until a full time replacement is found.

"You always have split emotions at a time like this," Commissioner Tom Altman said. "I'm sorry to see Bob go but I'm happy for his advancement. I think the nature of (Key West's) problems necessitated a quick release."

"Frankly," Mayor Ralph Kirk added. "I'm not happy to hear it — not a damn bit, but I'd be willing to agree to it if the rest of the commission agrees."

Reminiscing Tuesday morning over tenure at Belle Glade, Sanders said he believes a number of accomplishments could be noted, some of which would leave a permanent stamp on the city's future.

Among other things, he noted:

• The completion of the municipal complex, "and you'd have to go a long way to find another city of a similar size with a comparable complex."

• The completion of the Lake Shore and Airport Parks.

• The reduction of the millage on ad valorem taxes, "as significant reduction, notwithstanding increases in rates for water, sewer, garbage and trash service."

• The rewriting of the city's zoning code and the writing of the city's first development code.

• The completion of the city's comprehensive plan which is required by law.

• The completion of the city's Civil Defense Plan and the building of the Emergency Operations

Sanders years were productive

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE — The bombshell dropped by City Manager Robert R. Sanders Monday night, when he resigned his position effective Friday in order to take over the administration of the City of Key West, ended a four-year period of growth he reflected on Tuesday.

Sanders told the commissioners he had been contacted by Key West officials for the first time last Wednesday, after those officials had fired their city manager when he reported less than $1,500 in the city's coffers. He said he had only accepted the offer Monday evening, less than an hour before the commission meeting began.

Opinion

I've heard of some strange alibis before, when someone gets themselves caught in a crack but a preacher in Chicago apparently really means it when he says, "The Devil made me do it."

Not so much means the Devil made him commit the two murders he's accused of. He means, according to a wire story in a local daily Sunday, that the Devil made him confess to the two slayings when he was innocent.

Roland Kashney, a self-proclaimed prophet of God, said the Devil literally meant a confession out of him when he was accused by police officers and that's not all.

The Rev. Kashney went even further when he said he had been attacked by demons as early as 1968, two years before the first murder and shortly after he realized he was a prophet, in an attempt to get him to change his mind and admit he wasn't a prophet after all.

So where does the defense stand? Does he really think that he naturally calls in a self-proclaimed exorcist to the self-proclaimed prophet of his self-proclaimed demon who've possessed him.

Sounds reasonable to me.

As a matter of fact, I guess the same excuse could be offered for the cult of an early Jewish housewife with what was apparently a fertility idol in the living room.

The home, according to another wire story in the same Sunday paper, was excavated not too long ago in Jerusalem and dated back to the 6th century B.C. When I say early, I mean early.

G'bye, Bob

When Belle Glade City Manager Robert R. Sanders told the city commission Monday night he was leaving to accept the same position in the troubled city of Key West, it must have hit everyone who's watched city operations for the past four years the same way.

The news was shockingly sudden and Belle Glade is facing the job of finding someone who can fill a big pair of shoes.

That big pair of shoes is aptly illustrated by the fact Sanders is the first city manager to leave willingly and without pressure in at least 10 years.

Under Sanders' administration, the city has taken a number of giant strides forward, including the growth of the city's recreation department from an infant to a lusty, full-fledged program including two major parks and a complete program of activities that have helped cement relations between city residents.

The completion of the city's municipal complex that had been on the drawing boards for years before Sanders arrived.

The re-writing and updating of the city's zoning code and the creation of a development code, the combination of which, in connection with the city's new comprehensive plan which was also drawn up during Sanders' tenure, will leave his stamp on the growth of the city for decades to come.

An updated Civil Defense plan, including the building of an Emergency Operations Center which proved itself during Hurricane David last year.

Guiding the city through the majority of its share of the 201 Plan, dealing with the disposal of wastewater in the city. Also under the 201 Plan, the treatment of sewage in the city will be determined for the foreseeable future.

The prophets preached against it, but there they are in Israeli homes," said the excavation director, Yigal Shilo, referring to the exotic figure, which seems to be clutching a handful of grapes.

Shilo wasn't quoted as saying anything about it but the fertility aspect of the little ceramic critter could have been two-pronged. The story gives the implication the guy was a sex fiend because he was as naked as the day he was born but if he was holding a bunch of grapes, he might be interested in the fruit of the vine, too.

What do you think? Like Baschuk, don'tcha know?

Matter of fact, I quickly came to the conclusion the archeologists had misinterpreted the thing all the way around. That little guy is the local god of fun 'n' frolics, not fertility.

But something I saw on television Friday night was more along the line of fun and profit. The flag poles...or maybe it would be better said fun and votes.

For those who missed it, there was a little item that was nothing if it wasn't a reinforcement for Will Rogers' claim that if he couldn't find something funny anywhere else, he could always go to the daily newspapers...and television serves just as well.

It isn't exactly news that big government wastes big bucks...not even to Congressmen, a point proven last week by a release from U.S. Senator George S. Stone's office headlined Federal Agencies Waste Millions In Year-End Spending Spree.

I've heard a number of times about flags being donated by Congressmen for special occasions, such as the grand openings of new city halls, when the flag was certified as something special. Some had flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C.

Well, the clip shown on national TV Friday night was further proof that we don't have to go any further than our chosen representatives to find we as a nation are getting ripped off.

Those guys may have flown over the Capitol for more than a second and a half.

There was a crew of about five men running flags up and down a couple of staffs well hidden from the public's prying eyes, of course, then re-packing the flags into their boxes along with certificates that the flags had flown over the Capitol.

I'll say one thing for the crew. It may have been because of the television camera on hand but those guys were working a lot more efficiently than most government employees have a reputation for.

Those guys at the flagpoles were running copies of Old

Gary up and down at the rate of 10 a minute.

Considering there were two flagstaffs being used, that means they must run through, and allowing for the teams to work at half speed when the prying eye of the TV camera was around, that still works out to 100,000 flags a year that congressmen could hand out as certain Capitol-used flags.

That's a lot of city halls in anybody's language.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
This letter is in response to the story done by Mr. H.G. Duncan: "Our Illegal alien mess; Dunk's Almanac". I'm not a reporter or arguing his facts. But, he didn't have to use such harsh words. I've heard them, but I don't know. I'm unaware of facts to back this up; but I'm sure some of the readers have heard or know it also. I heard that one out of 10 people have a forefather or foremother who was an immigrant, even a few who came without necessary papers if some just check back enough in history.

And for those concerned, I'm not of the Mexican origin or married to one related to any as I know of. But, I'm a 21 year old woman and a black citizen, whose black ancestors helped mostly to build America, brought on ships unwillingly, and sold, as were the people of other origins (races). And what really tore me up is the kids rug rats. They're not responsible for their parents bringing them here. Mr. Duncan should visit Mexico and other places where illegal aliens come from, like the West Indies, Cuba, Haiti, etc. He should especially visit the islands where the people don't even check the housing and prices of rent and food. I bet he would show more consideration. No, I have not visited, but have seen films and they weren't trick photography. He shouldn't over-dramatize the use of the American language.

Center.

"But I believe the most far-reaching accomplishment, so far as the community is concerned," he said, "has been the growth of the Recreation Department. I believe it's improved race relations and has helped to keep tensions down. Once you've played flag football or softball with someone, you find it harder to hit him with a baseball bat."

"One thing I want to make clear too," he said. "I feel the attitude of the city commission allowed all this to happen. The commissioners have been supportive. They've been conservative on some things and liberal in some ways, particularly where it counted. They've been real supportive of myself."

Sanders said he believes he is leaving the city in a good position, but noted there are still several ongoing programs that will need attention, including:

- The 201 Plan for wastewater disposal, under which the city will be improving its sewer collection and treatment systems.

- The ongoing plans for a solid waste disposal facility, including the transfer station which is now under construction and expected to become operational in October and the two proposals being studied for a conversion plant (to diesel fuel) and a combination methane gas and alcohol plant proposed last week.

- Improvements in the city's water system, for which the city is preparing a bond issue for the near future.

Concerning the city's day-to-day operation, Sanders said improvements show in the way city employees are performing "little" tasks such as maintaining median strips and parks. He said the pride city employees feel about their work is one of the more noticeable aspects of the city now.

And how does Sanders view his own performances?

He said his two major strengths has been the ability to organize and get things done and his ability to establish a rapport between employees and employers.

He said he thinks his major weakness is to be, "impulsive sometimes when caution is called for. Sometimes, I make, not rash, but quick decisions that sometimes backfire, but I think that's so long as I'm willing to admit my mistakes and go back and try again, that isn't too bad."

Sanders came to Belle Glade in November 1976 after leaving his job as city manager of Eagle, Col. He'd earlier held a similar position at Steamboat Springs, Col., had been a member of the Leon County administration in Tallahassee and before that was an aide to Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma.

Sanders is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and served with the U.S. Marine Corps, reaching the rank of Captain.

In Key West, Sanders will be facing the type of challenge he says enjoys meeting.

According to Mark Andrews of the Key West Citizen, the city's major problem is its small tax base. He said more than half of the city's property is owned by government, mostly state and federal, which generates property taxes.

That city, with a declining population, now estimated between 20,000 and 25,000, is now working with an annual budget of about $4 million, compared to Belle Glade's 1980-81 budget of more than $6 million.

Adding complications is the fact the city's public works, police and fire personnel are all union. One of the worst personnel problems, Andrews said, is in the fire department. He said there are three fire stations and 49 employees, 13 of whom are captains.

He said one of the problems is overtime, that because of existing regulations, it's possible for a captain to earn $250 a day in overtime pay.

Andrews, who covers city hall for the Citizen, said the city has been having severe financial problems and the $180,000 overtime fee this year in the fire department is one of the reasons. He said the existing acting city manager has terminated 23 city employees.

Contrary to wire stories, Andrews said the city hasn't requested financial aid from the state, which could be given but which isn't expected even if the city does make the request, but the city has reportedly said it could go bankrupt.

Sanders said Monday evening one of the major reasons he wants to go to Key West is that, "As all the commissioners know, I'm a water oriented person and the ocean environment is a major attraction."

TO THE EDITOR, FOR THE PEOPLE!

As a property owner and 100% tax paying tax payer including late charges I would like to view my thoughts on the issues of the upcoming election for City Commissioners.

The people have gotten so high prices trying to compete with tax free housing projects, "free enterprises", are fighting a losing battle. If the Senators and Congressmen don't stop this in the FrHAs and HUD, the property owners and tax payers will be forced out of business.

Recently I read in The Palm Beach Post about a 24 year old man who is running for Mr. Ashberry. He is running against Thomas Altman for the election of City Commissioner. His platform is: "More free housing projects for the poor."

I wonder just how much property tax Mr. Ashberry pays in Palm Beach County. The way he speaks, probably none!

He "feels" for the poor!

But, how about the poor tax payer. Mr. Ashberry sounds only building on the even-numbered side of West Avenue A in the 1100 block in Lake Shore Elementary School.

Election

The Herald Observer heard one rumor that Asberry resided in a security trailer on the Lake Shore campus but when asked if that was the case, Asberry refused to comment.

Still another question arose over the date Asberry notified the Supervisor of Elections office of his change of address from Riviera Beach to Belle Glade.

Mrs. Boglioli said the voter registration card he presented to her when he qualified still carried a Riviera Beach address and precinct. She said Asberry told her at first he had requested a change of address on Aug. 4, then later said it was on Aug. 11.

Mrs. Boglioli said she was later informed by Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester that Asberry's change of address was effected Aug. 13, one week before her qualified.

Also running in the Sept. 9 city election, in Group Two, are incumbent Mayor-Commissioner Ralph Kirk and former Belle Glade Public Safety Director and Police Chief Charles Goodlett.

According to the latest figures from Mrs. Winchester's office, on Aug. 20, there are 4,262 voters registered in the city, reflecting a drop of 484 voters who have been purged from the rolls since last year's city election.

Chamber wasn't performing its functions.

The upshot was a "They don't understand us" attitude shared by both sides, leading to an unhealthy and undeclared sniping war of which neither adversary could be very proud.

Like a festering boil the situation came to a head during city budget sessions earlier this month when the commission, with only Commissioners Dorothy Walker arguing against the move, decided not only to honor the Chamber's request for a $7,000 grant this year but to cut the city's traditional grant of $5,000 to $3,800.

Walker, who, that led Chamber President Rupert Mock Jr. to a meeting with Commissioner Tom Altman, who had suggested the cutback on the grant. Altman agreed to ask the other commissioners to reinstate the $1,200 cut and the two also agreed to make several other positive steps to cement relations.

The agreements should and ought to result in more cordial relations between the Chamber and the City. The community as a whole has too many needs for two such important bodies to be working at cross purposes.

Hopefully, this will mean the energy spent fighting each other will be rechanneled in a common effort against the types of common attacks we've seen recently.

Discussions of goals and how to attain them are good for the body politic but backbiting arguments are unhealthy.

MIAMI DOLPHINS' quarterback Bob Griese and Don Strock (above) discuss game strategy during Saturday night's contest against the Minnesota Vikings.

Blessed with quarterbacks...

Dolphins prospects good despite pre-season loss

by Richard Hammell Sr.

Last Saturday night's Miami Dolphins' loss to Minnesota should have little effect on the Dolphins' regular season. While the Dolphins went down to a 17-10 loss, fans should keep in mind that was about the potential of the year's Dolphins.

Despite the Vikings' screams that they were renewing the famed Purple People Eaters, and their sheer delight in containing the Dolphins to only 65 net yards rushing, the game really revealed very little about the potential of the year's Dolphins.

Shula has his four quarterbacks which in itself is enough to create bad timing on the part of the entire team. Obviously Coach Shula is trying hard to determine who will be the number one starter, but more importantly, he realizes the Dolphins are blessed with four potential starters and therefore wants to give each of them equal opportunity.

Tony Nathan summed it up in the locker room after the game. "Once we start sticking with one system, we'll get things rolling."

Don Strock also said after the game that "having four quarterbacks, the change of sequences" had a disrupting effect on the entire team.

"You have to have eleven people going at the same pace to put it all together," Strock said.

Fans should remember that this is pre-season and Shula was faced Saturday night with a close look at all the talent available. He was faced last Tuesday with cutting the squad by 15 players.

Last year the Dolphins fell on hard times when number one Bob Griese suffered a hamstring pull, Guy Benjamin had not recovered from an appendectomy, and Don Strock had a knee injury. At the point Shula had to turn to a young Bruce Hardy, a tight end, to finish a game.

Monday the Dolphins traded Norris Thomas and Gary Davis to Tampa Bay Buccaneers for former Florida fullback, Jimmy DuBose. DuBose at 6 feet, 220 pounds, is not as big as Larry Csonka, but is big enough to get the job done for the Dolphins. Last season DuBose did not play for the Buccaneers after undergoing surgery on his left knee.

Even with the addition of DuBose, the Dolphins will still have to come up with another strong back. Speculation is, of course, that number two Strock will be inactive this year. A trade will leave Griese or Benjamin in the one and two spots respectively, with plenty of back up on Dave Woodley.

In an interview with Shula after last Saturday night's game, the coach admitted the Dolphins will have trouble unless the backfield is reinforced.

"The big plays came through and the short yardage stuff didn't work so well," Shula added.

All-Pro II wins tourney

BELLE GLADE -- All-Pro II Sporting Goods won first place this weekend in the Mens Softball Tournament sponsored by The City of Belle Glade Recreation Department.

All-Pro II went undefeated in the two day tournament, which was held at the new Airport Park. Second place was won by the Miami team of Clewiston and third place was the All-Stars from Belle Glade.

M.V.P. went to Dave Carsten from the All-Pro II Sporting Goods team and Home Run trophy was won by Craig Koble of Mace Sod.

It's rally time

BELLE GLADE -- The City of Belle Glade is sponsoring another car rally. This rally will be an overnighter, taking us to a fun spot.

This event has been planned for Sept. 13 and 14. The cost is $55 per couple, which covers entry fees, parking fees and the evening meal on Saturday. As in all our rallies, awards will be given for first, second and third place finishes.

"We are required to make advanced reservations at our overnight stop so a pre-registration reply by September 5, 1980 is necessary," Mike Underwood, Recreation Coordinator said.

"The first car will leave Belle Glade City Hall parking lot at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13. Please make sure you are at the Belle Glade City Hall parking lot no later than 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13. You will be back in Belle Glade by 3:30 p.m., Sunday Sept. 14." Underwood said.

I tell you true that my mind has not been so boggled by the medicine men since they announced plans for stapling people's parts together after surgery.

And this bit of news not only boggled my mind, it also stung me deeply in parts known and unknown.

I would suppose that mice, like dogs, lick their wounds and that was what first caused the researchers that the mice had something band-aids don't. But that is not what has me whirling.

By bedazzlement is this: now that they know, what can they do about it? How do you mass produce mouse (ready, proofreader?) spit?

Statistically speaking, how much spit can a mouse, even with a mouth full of chewing gum, produce a day? And how can you teach a mouse to chew gum, let alone hit a spittoon?

And the price! Even with 50 mice on overtime, the cost per gallon will be astronomical.

I may be sorry when I've said this (we may all be sorry) but is it possible that drooling mice will be used in the 21st century like leeches were in the 19th?

Of course not. They'll go about isolating whatever it is in (Hey!) mouse spit that's the cure-all and mix it up in chemical batches. A few punctures will probably demand natural spit. The rest of us will get synthetic.

But still my mind refuses to sit down and think only beautiful thoughts. Now it's asking me how many reports those scientists have had to submit to justify the time and expense of investigating expectorating mice.

There's long days of work ahead for those intrepid researchers before they get this whole production going. And they're going to need sympathy after a hard day's work just like anybody else. If I were them I don't think I'd mention it at home that I'd spent the whole day burping mice.

Just in case you haven't picked up on it yet, the newest medical miracle is mouse spit. (spit-it, please, proofreader. This is no time to doze off or we've all had it.)

Maybe that strikes you funny (it sure as heck does me) but let us remember that these are the same folks who found penicillin in moldy leftovers at the back of their refrigerators. Ever wondered how many dishes of unsaved lives you've thrown away?

So stop with the "why aren't they doing something useful like curing the common cold?" Maybe they were wiping little mousies' noses with colds in their heads when all this came up.

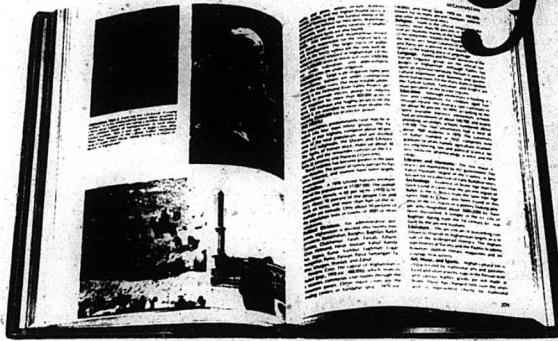

Anyway, it seems some scientists up in Boston have discovered that mouse spit (PROOFREADER!) contains a hormone-like substance that makes wounds heal up faster.

Human spit (we are not going to press our luck too far) does not contain this magic potion, they say. Just mice, rats, and guinea pigs.

Labor Day . . . the traditional day honoring the labor force of the nation. It's a legal holiday . . . when working people across the country take a one-day break on the first Monday in September.

Work has long been viewed as the cure for most of the troubles of the world. Honest and productive work, which one intends to get done, is a real blessing for humans. It keeps us moving forward and making our days on this earth worthwhile.

As the parable of the talents shows, God expects us to do something with our abilities. Draw fresh inspiration for your life and work in your house of worship this week.

KEEPING THE FAITH

BY THE REV. JOE ED McGAHEY

Community United Methodist Church

"And the Lord God took man and put him into the Garden of Eden to cultivate it and keep it." Gen. 2:15 (NASB)

Somewhat this verse of God's Word often gets overlooked when it comes to our daily work. This is before the fall of man. Very often we have come to look upon work as a curse rather than a blessing.

But this verse puts into context the story of creation and God's relation to man and in the very beginning puts work in the right perspective. Man from the beginning was given the privilege and responsibility of work.

So, someone asks, "What is the privilege of working all about, other than wages?" Our pay and wages is, or should be, the secondary reward of work. Its first reward is the sense of accomplishment. The sense of having done something worthwhile, or the knowledge that something has been made, constructed or improved on. The person who goes through life never or seldom ever having the feeling that he has accomplished anything has a deep feeling of emptiness.

It is an emptiness that is not going to be filled by laziness or idleness.

We were created by God with a need to be useful. Refusing to work, therefore, leaves that need unfilled. When a person takes what appears to be the easy way of letting others do all the work, there comes over him or her a feeling of dissatisfaction.

Many people who have learned to be lazy have found themselves in a bind and they feel their depression by continuing to be lazy. Work is not only a privilege, it is also from the very beginning a responsibility. God "put man in the Garden of Eden to cultivate it and keep it."

God made it a very beautiful place, but for it to stay beautiful, work had to be performed. He made it to be a very productive place, but unless it was cultivated and kept, it would stop being so.

Many people have always had a large garden. It was one of the most beautiful and productive gardens in town. He not only planted a large variety of vegetables, but some rows of flowers. There were also places for herbs and fruit, but the garden had to be cultivated and kept to maintain it in this condition.

As a boy in Virginia, I looked forward to summing up for many reasons. For one, I was out of school and even though I was in my early age had extra work to do in the summer, it was a fun time. Because of Dad's garden we ate "Not better in the 1930's." In fact, a lot of people ate better because of that garden. Mother canned a lot out of the garden and because of her work and dad's we ate a lot better in the winter.

Work that is honest is honorable, but there is nothing honest about being lazy. It is a disgrace.

The early church counted laziness as one of the seven deadly sins. The word of God says, "Laziness casts into a deep sleep, and an idle man will suffer hunger." Prov. 19:15 NASB.

Our government may see that he does not get hungry, but the lazy person will continue to have a hunger for meaning and purpose that he may not even understand.

Life has to have purpose to have meaning. The lazy person has no purpose.

Statistics show that about nine million Americans go to a doctor each year primarily for relief of chronic pain. Some studies prove that a substantial percentage of these people continue to suffer needlessly because they don't realize how effective chiropractic care is for chronic pain.

Chiropractic can relieve virtually any area of the body, resulting in such conditions as recurring headaches, since pain, low back pain, neck pain, arm and shoulder pain, chest pain, abdomen pain, sciatica, neuritis, arthritis, bursitis, and many other conditions.

Since oil pain is transmitted through the nervous system ...

and because of the unique and special training in dealing with problems of the spine and nervous system, chiropractic care is often effective in relieving chronic pain.

If you, or anyone in your family, suffer with chronic pain, simple and painless chiropractic screening tests can quickly indicate if you or not. If you are in pain, it is likely that you need chiropractic care. Some people respond to chiropractic care some do not. You'll never know for sure until you try. If you would like to find out if chiropractic can help you, call today for an appointment.

Elect Ed GARRISON COUNTY JUDGE SEPTEMBER 9th

To improve the Judiciary System, we need the energy and enthusiasm that Ed Garrison will provide as a full-time Judge. Everyone should work to make good Judges to make our system work properly.

County Court is really the people's court. It encompasses Traffic Court, Small Claims Court, Criminal Misdemeanor and Civil Suits up to $5,000. It is the official System at the County Court level that at all of the other levels combined. Yet the majority of voters have never had any contact with the courts. So how do you intelligently choose a Judge? You do it by people who come in contact with the system regularly.

Ed Garrison is supported by his fellow attorneys, law enforcement officers and Courthouse personnel.

Most of these unfortunate people will continue to suffer needlessly because they don't realize how effective chiropractic care is for chronic pain.

PBC Housing Authority's summer rec program ends

SOUTH BAY - Faced with the possibility of a grim summer without any type of recreational activities and no transportation to go where there are activities for youths, children living in the Palm Beach County Housing Authority's South Bay site have been fortunate that the possibility of a grim summer was only a thought and not grim reality.

For the fifth consecutive year the Palm Beach County Housing Authority has provided a eight week supervised recreation program for children living in South Bay.

Mrs. Cello Lee, Community Services Coordinator with PBC Housing Authority visiting with the South Bay site Thursday said students enjoyed one of the best summer recreation programs in recent years.

"Although the center was lacking in adequate space, number 100 students took advantage of the program and it's offing daily," she said.

Mrs. Joe's appearance at the center Thursday brought an end to the summer recreation program for another year; and awards and refreshments for the program participants.

Jack Parchment, site manager and his associate, Cathy Brown, Community Service Aide and the Urban League

Summer Youth Employment participants planned an open house presentation and an exhibit fair so parents of the program participants could view some of the work the students had created over the summer.

"With funds for purchasing supplies limited Mr. Parchment encouraged the students to use as much creativity as possible in using any safe available materials that could be found around the house," Mrs. Joe added.

Proud of the students accomplishments, Parchment had on display decorative trash cans made from ice cream containers; tote bags constructed from clothes pins; paper mache items made from plastic containers; dual purpose containers created from plastic bleach containers and decorative animal objects made of beer bottles and light bulbs.

Also on display were several wall murals painted on the glass doors of the center.

"The students' combination of talent here in South Bay, the students only needed someone to encourage them to use it," said Mrs. Joe.

Open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Parchment said the students also participated in the daily hot nutrition program at Rosewood Elementary School and a day camp sponsored by the Young Women Christian Association (YWCA), during the eight week program.

With a day of activities planned to end a summer of fun and a return to the classroom, Mrs. Joe said the McDonald, Inc., of West Palm Beach donated orange drink to the housing authority for the students, and the authority purchased other goodies for the students to munch on during the day of activities.

She added prizes were given to students winning the various games, and certificates presented to the program participants in recognition of their attendance.

Parchment also presented certificates to the SYPEP staff, and Ms. Towns for their services.

Parchment also presented certificates to the SYPEP staff, and Ms. Towns for their services.

With the closing of another successful summer program for youths living in South Bay, Mrs. Joe said the PBC

Housing Authority is looking forward to next summer when a proposed recreational building is scheduled to be ready to greet the summer participants next year.

IN APPRECIATION of the services of the Summer Youth Employment participants, Jacki Parchment, site manager of the South Bay site presents certificates of appreciation to Celeste Washington, Lee Arthur McKenzie, and Janice Walker.

Voter numbers surprising

by Dean Jones

Glades residents have a history of being different from the people on the coast and a revolving set of figures indicates that difference is as marked between voters as in any other area but the most unsettling difference may be in the total numbers.

It shouldn't be surprising, for instance, to know that the ratio of black to white voters in the Glades isn't anything like it is on the coast. East of 20 Mile Bend, 92.7 per cent of the registered voters are white while only 7.3 per cent are black. In the Glades, it's 53.7 per cent white and 46.3 per cent black.

There's another major difference in party affiliation. With 55.4 per cent of the coastal voters being registered, Democrats, 36.8 per cent Republicans and 7.7 per cent Independents or others. In the Glades, the Democrats make up a whopping 82.3 per cent of the electorate, compared to 15.9 per cent Republicans and 4.7 per cent Independents.

But when it comes to a breakdown in another area, however, figures supplied by Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections may surprise some people. The Glades and the coastal area run along similar lines when it comes to the differences in numbers based on sex.

For the county as a whole, 55 per cent of the voters are women and 45 per cent are men. In the Glades, the figures are 56.7 per cent women and 43.27 per cent men.

A further breakdown along sexual lines raised a few eyebrows even further, among political observers and politicians when they learned what the ratio was between men and women among the Glades area blacks who are registered Democrats. In that group, a whopping 82.5 per cent are women and the small number of black Republicans and Independents in the Glades are more evenly divided between men and women.

But the real shockers came by comparing the total number of voters in the Glades to the total number of voters in the county. While an estimated 7 per cent of the county's population lives west of 20 Mile Bend in the Glades, with 55.4 per cent white voters compared to 44.6 per cent blacks and 56.4 per cent women compared to 43.6 per cent men.

By parties, 78.6 per cent of the Glades' voters are Democrats, 15.5 per cent are Republicans and 2 per cent are Independents or others.

One breakdown for the county as a whole which wasn't supplied by precincts, is that it is unavailable for just the voters west of 20 Mile Bend, as by groups.

Only 2.8 per cent of the county's 293,592 registered voters fall between the ages of 18 and 20. That figure rises in the group encompassing 21-29 years old to 11.3 per cent and rises again to 45.6 per cent for those aged 30-64.

The clout held in recent years by the county's retirees has a ready explanation in the number of county voters over the age of 65... a whopping 37.3 per cent.

Post Office closed Monday

BELLE GLADE -- The U.S. Post Office in Belle Glade will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day, according to Postmaster Don Sivier.

Sivier said the only service which will be performed Monday is a pickup at the main office in front of the Post Office. There will be no deliveries; no mail will be put in boxes and the front office will not be open.

IN ANTICIPATION of the arrival of parents coming to view the art exhibit on display at the Palm Beach County Housing Authority South Bay Center last Thursday, Tanya Brooks and Jason Mills inspect the many items on display before the on rush of visitors to the center.

West Tech opens

BELLE GLADE -- After a year's delay created by construction difficulties, the West Technical Education Center opened its doors to students for the first time this week.

Daytime classes convened Monday and registration was "as expected," according to Dr. William Babb, West Tech director.

Opening day figures would be absolutely meaningless, he said, due to the supply registration totals.

He explained that the school has "an open entry, open exit," policy and while the projected enrollment figure is 1,000, students may enter classes anytime during the term.

Also, registration is continuing for night classes which will not start until Sept. 15, he pointed out.

Registration for day courses began Aug. 11 and when school opened, three courses were filled to capacity: diesel mechanics, cosmetology and practical nursing, according to Jimmie Lampi, dean of student services.

However, she said, students may still enroll in heavy equipment mechanics and heavy duty truck and bus mechanics and receive the same training because the three courses are interrelated.

Other courses described as "doing well" as far as registrations go are auto parts counterman, management training, auto body repair and refinishing, and air conditioning, heating, and refrigeration.

Among the classes which have not been filled, according to school officials, are carpentry, horticulture, plumbing, electrical wiring, welding, and commercial foods.

The West Tech curriculum is set up to accommodate both full and part time students and while providing vocational training it also offers scholarships and academic assistance, Mrs. Lampi explained. Job placement service is provided as well as a work co-op program.

With the exception of a few courses, students may attend either on both morning and afternoon sessions. After completing 540 hours of a 1,080 hour course, students who show proficiency can be placed in a work situation through Industrial Co-op Education (ICE). ICE students can earn their vocational certificates by continuing to work under supervision. Those lacking proficiency will remain in the classes. The ICE program is headed by Mr. Babb.

While attending classes, students may also get help in finding part time or full time employment through Occupation Specialist Wayne Wilkins.

And students who need tutoring in basic scholastic subjects such as reading, writing, and mathematics will be assisted through the Individual Manpower Training System (IMTS) a tuition-free learning lab.

The IMTS program is open and free to all residents. Mrs. Lampi said, and not just those enrolled in the vocational courses.

Most of the courses require 1,080 hours of training, two 45-hour weeks, one 120-hour course, and practical nursing, which requires 1,314 hours to complete.

A student enrolled in a 1,080-hour course who attends two sessions or blocks a day, can expect to complete the course in approximately ten months, Mrs. Lampi said.

Those completing the courses, including students who finish up under the ICE program, receive certification based on state guidelines for competency.

Mrs. Lampi describes West Tech as "one of the best in the state and one of the equipment is modern and nothing is outdated."

Additional information concerning West Tech may be obtained by calling 996-7617 or visiting the campus at 2626 State Road 715.

WE the tax payers are "fed up" to our necks with such politicians. I own around 40 apartments including 20 brand new ones in Pahokee. I can't even rent them. In fact, they are all empty right now!

You have nine miles of brand new housing projects which are backed by the government. The financing was obtained through the
